

Expedition Log of the S/V Carlyn

Date: Oct. 11, 2011

Trip Day: 2

Location: Blake Island

Name(s): Kelsey, Cori

School/Grade: Auburn MountainView 11th

Afternoon Report From Carlyn to the Web

Please share some interesting stories about today...

We had to dock early; weather.

Found out our exact location while sailing.

Any favorite wildlife sightings, quotes, games to share?

There were plenty of deer to see here on Blake island and we played two fantastic fun games which were both team bonding and most enjoyed them.

Describe the anchorage or moorage where Carlyn is right now:

We are docked at a beautiful island named Blake. It inhabits many raccoons and deer. Trees line every bank, the weather is not too good, but everyone is coping wonderfully.

Today's weather...

Ominous, mostly rainy with a few breaks of sun, and very high winds that caused us to have to stop sailing earlier than expected.

Describe highlights from today's science and sailing watches:

Games that got us all happy, deploying our science gear, and the little breaks of sun here and there. There were at least four or five rainbows to see.

Any questions, concerns, or expectations for tomorrow?

Are we going to keep learning more, because of the weather are we going to be able to man the boat by our selves, especially when the crew members have decided to let us students do it on our own. Will we be able to remember the details when it comes time for them.